End Signs on Street Cars.
 South Side people think the street car company should have signs on the ends of their cars to designate the place to which that particular car is going. They say that when they are waiting for a car north of Fourteenth street, they either have to wait until a car is alongside of them, in order to be able to read the sign, or else have to signal it to stop before it gets to them. In the latter case they frequently find they have stopped the wrong car.

Men's Meeting.
 The social religious service for young men at the Young Men's Christian Association building was largely attended and unusually interesting last Saturday. The meeting will be held as usual to-night at 7:45 o'clock. The subject will be "The Successful Athlete and his Prize," and the meeting will be led by Rev. Mr. Hopkins.

At the men's gospel meeting last Sunday afternoon nineteen different young men made short talks, which made the meeting a very inspiring one. The meeting at 4 o'clock to-morrow will be interesting. These attractive services are open to all men and all are invited to attend.

They are Making Tin.
 Steubenville Star.

Doubting Thomases, including ex-Governor Campbell, who declared last fall at Mingo that he would chase the tin plate industry out of America and to Wales, where it properly belonged, may be convinced that tin plate is made in America, in Ohio, in Jefferson county, and in Trondale by inspecting the sheet of bright tin plate on exhibition in the Star office window. The sheet was dipped this morning and is one of the finest pieces of bright tin made in America. It is a beauty.

Gray and Stephens Coming.
 Monday evening next Gray & Stephens, who are great favorites here, will commence a three nights' engagement at the Grand. Monday and Tuesday they will introduce the celebrated drama, "The Old Oaken Bucket." On Wednesday afternoon and evening they will present the beautiful drama, "Vesper Bells." The company is said to be good, and includes some of the best artists in the profession. Seats will go on sale Saturday evening at Gentler's.

"New York Day by Day."
 Miss Lottie Williams and her company appeared before another good audience at the Grand last night in the romantic drama, "New York Day by Day." The play deals with scenes and incidents in the great Metropolis and is very interesting and exciting. This afternoon there will be a grand matinee, and the company closes its engagement here with this evening's performance.

WHEELING & CONNELLSVILLE.
 A Belief that it will be Built—What the Surveyors are Doing.

The Waynesburg Independent of this week has the following: The surveying corps of the Wheeling and Connelleville railway Company, went to do some work, Friday, on the two tunnels—at Esquire Ammons, in order to get on to Coallick, and at John Scott's, in order to get on to Muddy Creek. These are the only two tunnels that will be in this country. We had quite a talk with Mr. Taylor who has charge of the corps, who, by the way, is a very clever gentleman. He is highly pleased with the route and the country through which the line passes, and speaks very encouragingly of the building of the road over some route. He said they had been called back to survey a line from Wheeling to Elm Grove and as soon as that was done, they will resume work here. He said they want to cross the creek from E. M. Sayers' farm at the foot of Richhill street, and follow First street. This would require two bridges, but would put the depot on this side of the creek and in town. There would be no trouble in obtaining permission from the borough to lay tracks upon that street. The square where the skating rink now stands would be an excellent place for depots, and thus putting the depot of the W. & W. and Wheeling & Connelleville roads near each other.

Admitted the Facts.
 Newspaper editors have to be very careful in opening their columns for statements. But aware that the Dr. Miles Medical Co. are responsible, we make room for the following testimonial from R. McDougall, Auburn, Ind., who for two years noticed a stoppage or skipping of the pulse, his left side got so tender he could not lie on it, his heart fluttered, he was alarmed, went to different doctors, found no relief, but one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure cured him. The elegant book, "New and Startling Facts," free at Logan Drug Co's. It tells all about Heart and Nervous Diseases and many wonderful cures.

LANGSTON'S RECEPTION.

How the Famous Colored Orator Was Treated at Parkersburg—A Register Fake Exploded.

Friday's Register contained a dispatch from Parkersburg alleging that Hon. John M. Langston, the famous Virginia colored orator, was not treated with the consideration due him by the Republicans at the Parkersburg League convention Tuesday.

The statement that Mr. Langston was not entertained properly is on a par with the other assertion that several prominent local Republicans were snubbed by the League, when in fact all except one of the gentlemen mentioned (the one being ill at his residence) were present at the meeting and one of them was elected a delegate to the National League.

The Register dispatch refers to Hon. G. W. Atkinson as one of the gentlemen who entertained Mr. Langston, and yesterday an INTELLIGENCER reporter called that gentleman's attention to the allegation that the orator did not receive proper treatment. Mr. Atkinson said that the story was untrue. Mr. Langston was not only treated with marked consideration, but expressed himself as gratified with the treatment he received and as delighted with his visit to Parkersburg.

"Before it was known that Mr. Langston would positively attend the League meeting," said the ex-Congressman, "the available quarters at the hotels were all taken, and Mr. Miller, of the local committee, was forced to arrange to secure him entertainment at a private house. Mr. James Madison, one of the leading and well-to-do colored citizens of Parkersburg, volunteered to entertain the distinguished representative of his race at his house, and this arrangement was a very satisfactory one. On Tuesday, however, Mr. Madison's wife was taken sick and he was obliged to forego the pleasure he had anticipated of entertaining the guest. It was then too late to seek further, and as no accommodations could be secured at the homes of other colored citizens that were suitable to a man of Mr. Langston's standing, I agreed to let him have my room at the Commercial Hotel, saying that I would find some other means of providing for myself. The proprietor of the hotel, Mr. Nolan, treated Mr. Langston with marked consideration and made him comfortable in my room. Afterward the parlor of the house was placed at his disposal.

"While at the hotel Mr. Langston was accorded an impromptu reception, and received in the parlor not only many of the leading white Republicans of various parts of the state, who were in attendance upon the convention and called to pay their respects to the eloquent orator, but also many of the leading Republicans of Parkersburg. Mr. Langston afterwards expressed himself as highly gratified with the hospitable manner with which he was treated, and was profuse in his expressions of appreciation of the magnificent ovation he received at the hands of the great convention when he delivered his speech at the Academy of Music.

"All who witnessed the scene in the convention hall that night will bear me out in the assertion that Mr. Langston was accorded a reception such as any white orator might be proud of, and such as few public men have ever been honored with by a political gathering in West Virginia. The building fairly shook with applause throughout his splendid effort, and at its conclusion a reception was held on the stage during which scores of leading Republicans from all over the state sought introductions to the orator and warmly grasped him by the hand. Afterward, at the hotel, Mr. Langston referred to this and told me he could not find words to express his appreciation of the cordial greeting he had received from the Republicans of West Virginia.

"I notice the Register dispatch concludes with a query as to whether Democrats would be guilty of treating a negro as the correspondent alleges Langston was treated. How many Democratic conventions in West Virginia have ever entertained colored orators in any manner, and how long, think you, would a Democratic convention be in session if a man with negro blood in his veins were to be introduced for the purpose of addressing them, even though he spoke with the tongue of a Demosthenes? Has the spectacle of a colored man being introduced to speak by an ex-slaveholder ever been witnessed in a Democratic convention in West Virginia? No? Well, that is what was witnessed at the Republican convention in Parkersburg. We should be grateful to the Register for affording us the opportunity to call public attention to the fact that the Republican party not only preaches the doctrine of equality of citizenship, but practices it. Mr. Langston is the peer, intellectually, of any man in West Virginia. His color made no difference in a Republican convention nor to the members of it."

La Grippe Successfully Treated.
 "I have just recovered from a second attack of the grip this year," says Mr. James O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexico, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days, against ten days for the first attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.'"
